Fort Shirley/Indian River/Picard Beach Tour

You will be driven along the beautiful West coast to Dominica's second town 25 miles north of Roseau. Along the way you will pass through fishing villages and several scenic viewpoints. Once in Portsmouth, you will visit the reconstructed offices and quarters of Fort Shirley. Located on a scenic peninsula just north of Portsmouth, the national park is best known as the site of Fort Shirley, a large 18th-century British garrison which once housed 600 soldiers. Some of the fort's stone ruins have been partially reconstructed; others are half-hidden in the jungle and are an adventure to explore. There are spectacular views of Prince Rupert Bay from the ruins of the Officer's Quarters. After walks throughout the Cabrits, you will be taken on a rowboat ride up the Indian River, Dominica's widest river, lined with mangroves. Here you can see Hummingbirds, Herons and Cuckoo. To close a perfect day to you may swim at Picard, Dominica's longest golden sand beach.
